

Modernize Your Sales Processes with Document Automation

Our solution transforms manual, error-prone processes into digital, automated versions enabling faster selling and better customer engagement.

Sell at the speed of now.

Get your quotes back quicker.

Stop wasting time on manual administrative work.

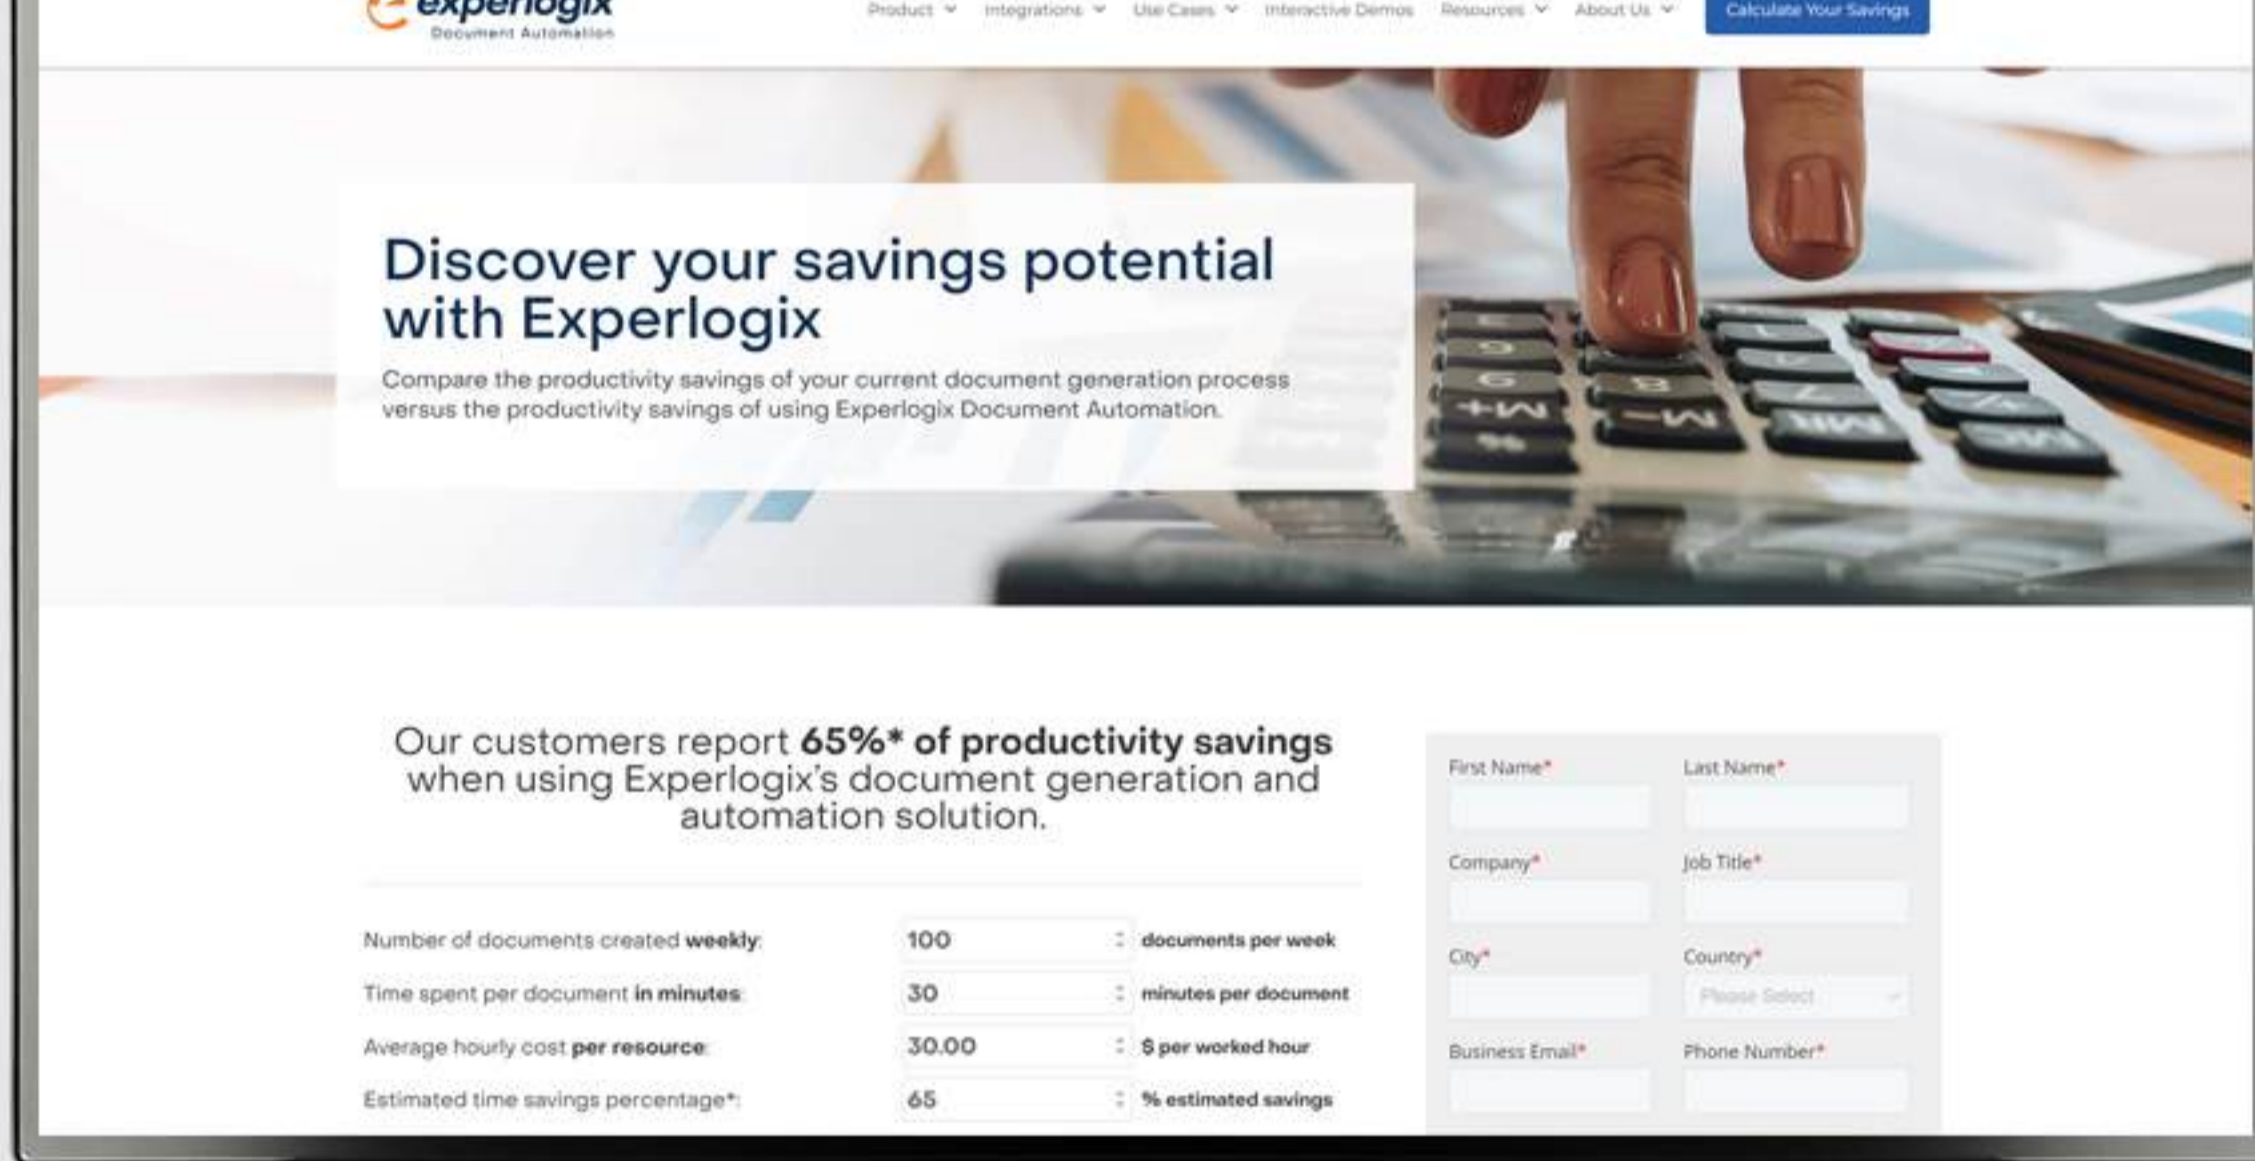

Automate your quote approval process.

Gain more time to sell.

Compare the productivity savings of your current document generation process versus the productivity savings of using Experlogix Document Automation.

Since converting to Experlogix Document Automation, Thermo Fisher has enjoyed the benefits of centralized document management. Now their field salespeople access content from the company servers. They no longer experience the negative consequences of issuing customer-facing documents containing outdated information.

“Centralizing the document resources was the biggest benefit of switching to Experlogix. Our proposals now include all the latest information we’ve uploaded to the central repository.”

“The changes in our quote generation process has actually been really great since we’ve added Experlogix. Now there’s a lot of automation in the back end and it minimizes issues. Right now if we create a configuration and we hit send to print, everything in that configuration is consolidated not only into a proposal but also into a work order, a bill-of-materials, a timing worksheet, and all the way down to a budget for that project.”
